Barbara, While I have never met you, from Breeze's e-mails to the Tues AM Bible Study Group, I feel as if we do know each other.. I am the token Methodist in the group. . .surrounded by many good men from Bay Pres. Joining the group was a bit daunting under these circumstances, made much easier by your very friendly, personable husband. I sat by him many times. I well remember discussing the week's Harley trip and the merits of crepes vs oatmeal. He made a difference for me. . .he will be missed. As out of state snowbirds, we were unable to attend his memorial service, but a donation in his honor has been made to Community Service. God Bless, Bob Arkes

Barb, Throughout my many years I have had many friends, but only two that I can honestly call my best friends. Both now have been called home, my teenage long time buddy, Jerry, and my dear friend, Gary, who it seems I've known for a lifetime. I knew from the very moment we met, picnicking at Bay Pres, that there was something special about you both! God placed you and Gary in my life at time when my need was great and you all never failed me. That day as I lay hospitalized fighting for my very life Gary was there with me and witness to the vision that our Lord afforded me as I left my body for a time and saw the very threshold of Heaven. Gary reminded me as I called out that there were thousands upon thousands of Angels all bathed in the brilliance of that perfect light. I was overwhelmed with an untold comfort and that perfect peace that accompanied my vision, and then even more so when I returned to my body only to look over my shoulder and see my special friend, sitting there, standing guard! Truly my guardian angel here on earth. Now my dear friend Gary is with that bevy of Heavenly Hosts that I only saw for a moment and he now rejoices with for an eternity. I miss my dear and special friend and look forward to that day when we shall be together again. My tears of sorrow are now being replaced with tears of joy for the peace he now has. Barb, may God now and continually comfort you through your sorrow and may your tears be replaced with the many pleasantries memories of your husband Gary. Every blessing is sent your way! Breeze
