Happy Birthday Mom! Thinking of you today as I often do, and missing you always. Although there are days of sadness and tears I'm looking forward to the day we are together again in the glory of heaven. Love you so much Mom!

I'm thinking of you today Mom, I think of you so often. I'm really missing you now and wishing I could see you again. One of the hardest things is that I lived so far away from you and dad, that I wasn't able to be there. I would have loved to spend time with you. I think of all the years Diane had to help with so much along with running the business and family. I know it must have been hard. Sometimes I feel guilty for not being there to help out. I love you mom and miss you terribly. Love Always, Patty

Thinking about you today Mom and missing you. I wish I could pick up the phone and call you. I've had so many memories come to my mind since you've been gone. Like how you used to sit at the table with grandma and string beans for what seemed to be a long time. I remember the dresses you wore and how you looked when you were young, you were so beautiful. It just the simple every day things you did that mean the most. Like knowing that you were always there when we came in from playing or being at the neighbors house and feeling secure. Someone was told me that no matter how old you get there are times when you wish you had your mother's shoulder to cry on. Today is one of those days. Oh, how I would love to be able to turn back the hands of time.

I am so thankful for the life you gave me and the love of a mother. No one can ever take your place in my heart. I will treasure the time I had with you before you left this world. I only wish it could have been longer, but still and thankful. I remember how when I had the twins you would get them out of bed every morning to let me sleep after being awake with them through the night. You took such good care of them and I know you got much joy from your time alone with my girls. And how you would come out to Washington when I had Holly to help with the other kids. You sure enjoyed being here with the kids, and a new baby. You held her all the time. I remember you singing "You are my sunshine" growing up and I sang it to my kids, and now they sing it to theirs. That and "I love you a bushel and a peck". That's another one I passed on. I sang that song to you before you left us, along with You are my sunshine. Oh how the ending verse of that song tore at my heart when I came to the part that said "Please don't take my sunshine away." I miss you so much Mom, and wish I could talk with you. Love always, Patty

I will never forget the Love she offer to me as a young boy going up in North Ridgeville. I spend days after days at my Aunts home. Those days are illreplaceable. The special attention she always had for us was rewarding and comforting and will never be forgotten. At this time I am saden but, also happy my aunt is with the man she love her husband and my uncle along with her friends and family with God. She will always be with me and in my memories. Until we meet again Aunt Lucille, Gods speed and enjoy your Hevenly rest. I will always Love You. Billy
